(Special to The Herald)
London, Nov. 17.—The Supreme German War Lord, Emperor William is now said to be directing operations of the Tutonic Allies in the Balkans, and he has personally taken charge of the bloody battle front which extends across Serbia. Lord Kitchener is said to be in command of the Anglo-French and Serbian forces which are meeting the onrush of the Germans. The battle is the fiercest of the war with the odds favoring first one side and then the other. With the aid of re-inforcements, the Bulgarians have recaptured Babuna Pass and Isvor from the Serbians. The French force which tried to batter their way through to the aid of the Serbians has been beaten back.

BANCROFT DECLARES MRS. BURNS SANE

Most Prominent Witness in Today's Court Proceedings--Lively Tilt Between Counsel--
Mrs. Burns Interested But Calm

At the opening of the third day of the Burns trial, the court room was well filled with spectators, many ladies being present and apparently taking a keen interest in the proceedings. Mrs.
Burns, accompanied by Mrs. Shaw, wife of Deputy William B. Shaw, sat in her customary place and appeared as calm and collected as in the previous days of the trial. She showed no visible emotion while either Mr. Chipman of whom she purchased the poison testified or Dr. Charles P. Bancroft, the state's expert on insanity, who stated she was sane from his observations.

Sold the Poison

Walter A. Chipman, druggist at 797 Elm street, Manchester, the first witness, recalled that a woman came to his place of business on December last and asked for cyanide of potassium. She said she wanted two ounces for her brother who was a photographer and jeweler in Raymond. As there was nothing strange about the request the order was filled and she signed the poison book with the name of Miss Alice Howard, and I added Raymond, in my handwriting. I have seen this woman in the county jail since and it was Mrs. Burns, the defendant in court.

On cross examination Mr. Chipman said that the amount of cyanide of potassium that he sold Mrs. Burns was enough to kill two or three hundred persons.

Believes Mrs. Burns Sane

Dr. Charles P. Bancroft of Concord, superintendent of the New Hampshire state hospital. During my thirty-three years experience I have seen 30,000 cases of insanity and have made a special study of that subject. On May 29 Mrs. Burns came to the hospital and remained there until September 2nd for observation. I saw her at least once a week and had practically daily reports from those in attendance. She was examined by both Dr. Doleff and myself.

As the result of my observation I formed the opinion that she was sane and her conduct did not show that she was recovering from an attack of insanity. Mrs. Burns was before the entire medical staff of the hospital at one time and examined at some length.

DEATH FOLLOWS BOYS' FIGHT

Lewis H. Emerson of Epping
Victim of After-School Squabble.

The past week brought a real tragedy at Epping in the death of 13-year old Lewis H. Emerson, who it is claimed died as the result of injuries received at the hands of an angry school-mate.

The story goes that the two lads, both pupils in the fourth grade, had trouble over some school work, and the ill feeling was carried outside the school rooms. According to what is learned, blows were struck and the two lads ran upon the veranda of a house where young Emerson was struck upon the head with a window pane.

He fell and was picked up by the inmates of the house. Later taken to the hospital and he started for home. He walked three miles and upon arriving was in such a condition that he did not recognize his mother.

Doctor Fernald of Nottingham was called who later procured Doctor Keniston of Exeter for consultation. The lad entered a state of coma, was seized with convulsions and later died. He had a bad fracture of the skull.

The accident was rendered the more tragic as the lad had been afflicted with defective eyesight and deafness for some time.

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, Nov. 17.—Returns received at the state department of Fisheries and game, and which were completed today, indicates a marked decrease in the number of pheasants slain during the "open season" this year as compared with those killed during the same period last year. The open season on pheasants extends from October 12 to November 12. This year the total number of birds killed was 5,714, while in 1914 the number was 8,243. The reason for the decrease as explained by the fish and game experts is that the pheasants have grown wiser and remained closer to cover this year than last, which was the first open season on these birds. The following is a comparative table of the number of pheasants slain in each of the counties which permits the shooting of these birds:

Barnstable	1915	1914
Essex	10	31
Franklin	1431	2583
Berkshire	336	477
Hampden	247	467
Middlesex	1866	2842
Norfolk	613	655
Worcester	1197	1928
Totals	5714	8243

The number of totals last year and this year was approximately the same.

Governor David I. Walsh is a tribute to Booker T. Washington said: "No member of the colored race has done more to break down the barrier of human prejudice between black and white. The country, and the colored people especially have suffered a great Boston will pay into the state treasury this year as its share of the expenditures of the Commonwealth, $1,790,973.47 of which the state tax amounting to $3,207,750 is the greatest item. The second largest item entering the state's charges against the city is that of the metropolitan improvement, amounting to $2,616,185.63. Of these the metropolitan water accounts amounts to $1,675,000.20, with the park system calling for the next highest contribution, $669,515.08, being charged up against it.

THINK FIRE SET BY GERMAN SYMPATHIZERS

Biddeford, Me., Nov. 16.—While the cause of the 500,000 fire in the big storehouse of the Pepperell Manufacturing Company the night of October 22 is as much of a mystery as ever, the belief is gaining ground that the blaze was set by a German sympathizer because the plant was making sheeting that might eventually reach the Allies.

One thing that has puzzled the officials from the first is the fact that when Watchman John Edgecomb entered number 2 section of the warehouse where the fire originated at 9:07 p. m. and made his usual careful scrutiny, he saw no indication of fire. At 9:25 Watchman Francis Murphy, who was walking through number 2 picker some distance away noticed a lurid glare in one of the windows of the cotton house. He investigated and found that a blaze was raging furiously within.

In spite of every precaution taken by the company to prevent a fire in the cotton house, where $3,000,000 worth of goods has been stored at one time, in 18 minutes a tremendous fire was raging and it took the firemen of four cities to subdue the flames.

Those who favor the incendiary theory believe that some one entered the storehouse disguised as a cotton handler, and placed some kind of a machine that started the fire. Had a fire been smoldering in the cotton the watchman would have noticed the smoke when he went to the section at 9:07 it is believed.

DON'T LIKE NEWSPAPERS

Nashua Strikers Resent Their Criticism.

Nashua, Nov. 16.—The first public mass meeting of the strikers held tonight, was unusually interesting much being commended and many criticisms being freely given.

Counsel William H. Barry for the striking employees of the Nashua and Jackson companies said "our position is and always will be that the matter be put up to a board of arbitration. If the companies have any compromise to make we will consider it fairly, but until that offer comes every one of my clients will remain firm. We ask that the matter be referred to an impartial arbitration board and we will abide by such a board's decision."

The meeting was called to order by President Daniel Sullivan of the Central Labor Union and he introduced R. L. Nutting of Concord, president of the State Federation of Labor, who presided.

Various speakers criticized the newspapers as especially open to criticism for certain editorials and articles that have appeared on the strike situation.

Former Mayor W. H. Barry seconded Agent Milliken of the Nashua company for delaying action and called him to account for the statement that he had not received the request of the strikers. Mr. Barry said that the request had been presented to the agent.

Counsel Barry was in a highly critical mood and at various times alluded to newspapers, Agent Milliken, and certain lawyers, taking them to task for their stand in the discussions of the past few weeks.

President Nutting in his introduction stated that there were three million of workers behind the Nashua strikers and that they would be taken care of no matter how long the strike lasted.

Counsel Barry in his opening remarks secured the secret meeting of business men a week ago to discuss the strike.

"There has not been a strike broken in the Nashua mill since the strike started. There has not been an arrest of a striker who started any trouble. The first riot was caused by a mill employee firing a gun in the mill yard," said Mr. Barry.

The other speakers included Organizer John T. McMahon who spoke on textile conditions and J. J. Coyne of Manchester, secretary-treasurer of the A. F. of L. who spoke on the militia situation.

Our Remarkable Country.

When people read of such a storm as swept a section of Kansas a few days ago, resulting in numerous deaths, many injuries and the destruction of hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property, they sometimes wonder why people will live in a region subject to such visitations. But they do live and prosper in spite of tornadoes, floods and other destructive forces which are felt in different parts of the country from time to time.

This is a great and remarkable country. As compared with the Old World it is many countries combined in one. Its immense area, its great variety of soil and climate and its wealth of natural resources of all kinds are not equalled in any nation in the world.

The western states, the home of the tornado and occasional disastrous floods, constitute the agricultural heart of the country. There is agriculture in all sections, but the West is responsible for the immense production of cereals and meats which is the wonder of the world. The section has its drawbacks, of which the liability to tornadoes is one, but the good so far outweighs the evil, the advantages so far outweigh the disadvantages, that the people not only retain their footing, but go steadily forward in all that constitutes civilization and progress.

And the same is true to a certain extent of all parts of the country. There are places on the coast which occasionally suffer from storms such as are experienced nowhere else, but the inhabitants do not run away. They stick and bang, guarding themselves against the assaults of the natural elements to the best of human ability, and continue to prosper. The New England winter is something to be endured, particularly at a time when a few days and a few dollars will take one to regions of perpetual sunshine, but the natives, and thousands who have come from milder climes, brave its rigors and would not exchange their home for all the tropical glories in the world.

And so while there is never a lack of sympathy with sufferers from "nature on the rampage," there is no occasion to despair of any part of this great and glorious country. It is good in every part despite any and all drawbacks that may exist. The record of the past is one of steady achievement and progress, and there is every reason to believe that the record of the future will far exceed that of the past.

At a recent church conference in Pittsburg one minister strongly advocated advertising as a means of increasing church attendance and membership. There could be no objection to proper newspaper announcement of church activities, of which there is a great deal already, without money and without price, but it should hardly be necessary for the churches to vie with the merchants in setting their claims before the public. "By their fruits shall ye know them."

There is a serious shortage of cars in some parts of the country, and everybody knows what this means. It means that the great crops are being moved and that business of all kinds is picking up in cases where it has not already picked up and on the boom. A shortage of cars is inconvenient, but it is a healthy sign.

A Bavarian army surgeon is said to have found city men better adapted to military service than men from the farms. However this may be, it is safe to assume that none of the warring nations is haggling over the question of whether volunteers are from the city or the country. With open arms all are welcomed to arms.

Mrs. Galt, the fiancée of President Wilson, is apparently about as particular and set in her ways as her future husband. It is announced that she cannot find in Washington or New York hats to suit her and that she is going to make them herself. Now look out for some new styles in "hats for women."

Senator Stone of Missouri is not satisfied with a program of preparedness sufficient for defense only. He wants a navy not only strong enough to defend our coasts, but to go out on the high seas and sweep the world if necessary. And Senator Stone is a democrat, too.

Bull fighting and cock fighting have been prohibited in Mexico. This is well if the prohibition can be made effective, but the elimination of revolution and outlawry would be even more beneficial to that distressed republic.

A magazine writer alludes to the "inventor" of the story of George Washington and his little hatchet. This would indicate that if the Father of his Country could not tell a lie, there was some one else who could.

CURRENT OPINION

Next War Will Be Fought
With Machinery and Brains.

Our next war will be a machine war—a war of brains rather than blood. In my opinion, we should substitute machines for men, so that the efficiency of each man in time of war could be multiplied by twenty through the aid of machinery.

But the country must be prepared for the ordeal. It would be economy for us to erect factories with a capacity for turning out just as much powder as is being shot away each day in Europe.

These factories would not be so expensive if kept in readiness to turn out powder when it is needed.—By Thomas A. Edison, Noted Inventor.

FULL RESOURCES OF SHIP YARDS

Navy League Advises That Congress Build All War Ships Possible.

Washington, Nov. 16.—A resolution calling upon the President and Congress at once to lay down as many dreadnaughts, battle cruisers, scouts and auxiliaries as the shipbuilding resources of the country will permit to meet the present crisis and dangerous situations which may arise at the close of the European war was unanimously passed at a meeting of the directors of the Navy League yesterday. Resolutions were also passed to the effect that in the present emergency the United States would be justified in issuing bonds to obtain funds for national defense, and reiterating the league's call to the President to establish a general council of national defense.

The passage of the resolution calling for the construction of as many ships as possible with the greatest possible speed followed a discussion during which it was asserted that the greatest need of the United States for a powerful navy probably would come at the close of the present great war.

Accordingly it was concluded that no effort ought to be spared to insure the prompt laying down of the greatest possible number of ships at ship building plants in this country and their completion at the earliest possible date. The meeting at which the resolutions were adopted was held at the residence of Colonel Robert M. Thompson, president of the Navy League. Among those who attended were about thirty directors, vice-presidents and eminent men in the professions and industries of the United States, resident in many sections and representing more than fifty thousand men and women who are members of the Navy League and its women's section.

The resolutions follow: "Resolved, That the Navy League of the United States views with satisfaction the recognition of the administration of the 'urgency and necessity' for national preparation to protect the interests of the United States.

"The crisis confronting the country calls for immediate action. The increase of our navy should be made at the earliest possible moment. It is the belief of the Navy League of the United States that our navy should be restored to its former position of strength among the navies of the world as quickly as the ship building resources of the country will permit.

"As the creation of trained crews for the large number of additional vessels needed is a question of vital importance, the Navy League of the United States believes that every effort should be made to include in the program of ship building enough officers and men to fill as soon as possible the depleted complements of the active fleet, the complements of the ships in reserve and under construction and the crews of the vessels which it is proposed to lay down.

"And, in conclusion, it is the conviction of the Navy League of the United States that the prompt creation of a real general staff for our navy is absolutely necessary if we are to place our fleet on an efficient basis.

"Resolved, That it is the opinion of the Navy League of the United States that the necessity of the immediate construction of a number of capital ships and other vessels urgently needed constitutes an emergency justifying the issuance of the bonds now available in the United States Treasury and confidently believes that the American people will be found as ready to lend money for this purpose as for the needs of foreign nations.

"Resolved, That the Navy League of the United States reiterates its frequently expressed belief that a council of national defense should be immediately authorized by the Congress for the proper co-ordination of all the forces necessary for national defense."

WOMEN TO ATTACK CONGRESS

Washington, November 14.—All the big artillery the woman suffragists of the United States can muster is to be turned on Congress when that body opens its next session on December 6.

"We want to make suffrage the big idea of the opening of congress and drill into the minds of congressmen, the votes-for-women propaganda until they can think of nothing else. We want to sweep congress off its feet for suffrage before it can turn its attention to anything else."

This statement was made recently by Miss Alice Paul, the chairman of the executive committee of the congressional union for Woman Suffrage and if the plans which she and her associates have made mature properly there will be a large enough suffrage demonstration in the national capital the opening week of congress to attract the attention of every member.

Never before have the woman suffragists been so confident of victory on this winter. They have practically abandoned all state campaigns and are concentrating all their forces to carry to victory through congress their famous Susan B. Anthony Constitutional amendment, which provides for national woman suffrage. This, the leaders believe is a short cut to woman suffrage which is in every way superior to wearisome work in dragging single states into line one at a time.

The Congressional Union and the National American Woman Suffrage Association, separate organizations with but a single thought, however, are joining their forces for the onslaught on congress. Mrs. Sara Bard Field of Portland, Oregon and Miss Frances Jilliffe of San Francisco, a sister-in-law of Rudolph Spreckles, the Golden Gate millionaire are envoys of the women voters of the United States who have motored across the continent carrying a petition from the women voters asking congress to enfranchise the entire female population of the United States. They expect to arrive in Washington the day congress convenes or a few days prior and will take to the capital their petition. This document was signed by a half million women voters at the San Francisco Exposition and has accumulated about as many votes on its way across the U. S. The envoys are to be received by the President the day they arrive.

Officer Schreider, with a Haverhill officer went to Boston last evening to follow up another suspect, who the police had gotten track of. The Haverhill police are doing good work on the case and expect to land the man who impersonated the police officer.

They are of the opinion however, that Hobbs has made good his escape from the woods and is now on his way West.

DOVER'S OLDEST WOMAN RESIDENT

Mrs. Sarah Vaughan Now in Her 100th Year.

Dover, N. H. Nov. 17.—Mrs. Sarah Brackett Dorr Vaughan, Dover's oldest woman entered upon her 100th year today. Plans for the observance of her 99th birthday were made by Miss Sunday when she lost her voice. Today, however, she rallied and realized that the birthday she had talked so much of lately had arrived. Her condition is partly due to a shock sustained four weeks ago, which affected her left side.

Her only daughter, Mrs. Fred N. Nash with whom she lived at 270 Washington street could not keep back the tears today when speaking of her mother's illness. Yesterday and today Mrs. Vaughan had many callers who were permitted to see her. She received three birthday cakes a bunch of roses from the Whiteoak Club, flowers and gifts from many friends and a postcard shower.

Mrs. Vaughan is the granddaughter of a Revolutionary soldier, Beniah Dorr who served with the New Hampshire troops. Her father, Benjamin Dorr, was a soldier of the war of 1812, while her husband, John Vaughan served with the 17th Maine Infantry in the Civil War. She was born at Milton Mills.

Mrs. Vaughan suffered the great misfortune of losing her sight at the age of 45 as the result of overwork in a tailor shop in Rochester, which induced brain fever. She began using her eyes at the sewing machine before she fully recovered her strength and her sight was soon destroyed. She has borne her loss bravely in the 54 years intervening since.

Her lovely disposition has won her hosts of friends all over this section. An expert with the needle she has done many wonderful things with it since she became blind. She has recently finished some rugs and has made many woven rattron holders, which she has presented her friends.

In her younger days Mrs. Vaughan was a choir singer. She joined the Calvinistic Baptist church at Milton Mills when sixteen years old, and was leader of the choir. In later years she sang in choirs in Rochester and elsewhere. She learned tailoring in Boston.

INSTRUCTION FOR ARTILLERY OFFICERS

Course Laid Out by Adjutant General.

Orders were issued Monday by the adjutant-general's department, prescribing a course of theoretical instruction for captains and lieutenants of the line of the Coast Artillery Corps. Four courses are prescribed, basic, employment, range, communication and artillery.

There will be monthly problems furnished each officer of the Coast Artillery Corps, who has not completed the required courses," the order states. "These problems will be sent out by the inspector-instructor on the first of each month during the period January-April and answers thereto will be returned to him on or before the seventh day of the month following that in which recorded.

"The commanding officer Coast Artillery Corps, will prescribe the course of study for the non-commissioned officers of his corps, taking the subjects to be taken up, and the time to be devoted to each. Upon the completion of the time allotted to a subject, the corps commander will prepare questions for the examinations, cause written examinations to be held, mark the papers submitted and publish the result, showing the comparative rating of proficiency of all non-commissioned officers taking the course.

"For satisfactory work a non-commissioned officer will be furnished by the corps commander with a certificate of proficiency, which will excuse him from further study or school examination in that particular subject, and be given weight on a question of promotion.

"For unsatisfactory work a non-commissioned officer may be required to take the subject again, or may be reduced to the ranks.

"Each company commander will institute a school for selected privates of his company, prescribe a course, detail an instructor and cause such examinations to be held as he may desire. The results of such examinations should be considered in the selection of non-commissioned officers.

DOVER MEN HIR'D IN MUNITION PLANT CLAIMED BY PAPER

DEMOCRAT SAYS THAT REPRESENTATIVES HAVE BEEN TO THAT CITY TO INDUCE LABOR TO COME HERE.

The following story was taken from Foster's Dover Democrat of last evening, stating that the New England Steel and Ordnance Company is employing workmen from that city in order to get a full complement of men for the big plant located here in Portsmouth.

"A representative of New England Steel and Ordnance company of Free-man's Point, Portsmouth, was in this city Saturday afternoon in search of help to unload the machinery from the cars which are on the side track at that place and to assist in putting the machinery in the buildings. The representative did not divulge the nature of the business that was going to be conducted at the plant.

He saw a number of men whom he tried to employ and he told them that the jobs which he could give them in handling the machinery would last at least two months but he would not agree to furnish them with work after the machinery had been installed in the plant. While here he engaged three men who promised him that they would report at the plant ready to go to work this morning. Three other young men of this city have also been promised work at the plant if they would report there this morning. This will make six Dover men who have been promised work at the plant.

Each of the men who were employed were told to report to one of the several watchmen or guards that the company had stationed along the railroad track near the plant. The guard would conduct each to the foreman who has charge of removing the machinery from the cars to the buildings.

WITH THE SPORTS

New York, Nov. 15.—The next crop of American millionaires will be harvested from the army of prize fight managers—the persons who have discovered how to get rich quick with the least exertion.

The unlearned pugilistic methods are possessed of the idea that the fighter gets the bulk of all the huge purses that are hung up for battles in these frenzied finance days. The unlearned has the wrong idea. It's the so-called "managers" who grab off the largest share of the gold-tinted mazzin.

A good manager very often helps a fighter to get near the top in the pugilistic heap—but there are few good managers in this era. The fair and honest manager is satisfied with a 25 per cent share of the fighters income as payment for his efforts in boosting his man and guiding him along the financial pathway, but the trouble with the pugilistic game is that many unscrupulous ulous persons have grafted themselves onto fighters and act like leeches—they suck out of the fighter nearly every dollar he earns, and in the end, the fighter has nothing and the manager everything.

A New York sport writer recently made the rounds of the fight managers' offices in Gotham and marvelled because many of them occupied regal suites in some of the biggest office buildings in the town. That don't seem strange to us. The only marvelous thing about his discovery, in our opinion, is that he didn't find a bunch of managers occupying—and owning—the whole building.

Many Managers Like Leeches
The softest way of gathering in big money these days is to manage some boob fighter—a guy who knows how to fight and knows little or nothing about the financial end of the game. That class of fighters—and they are in the majority—are easy prey for the human vultures who term themselves "managers."

Whenever a youngster rises in the pugilistic world there's a mad scramble among the "managers" to grab him off and put his financial affairs under their control. They scent prey and they are like wolves in pursuit of it.

The "Managers" usually sign up the boob fighter to a contract that is lopsided; one that is iron-clad as far as the fighter is concerned but can be broken any time the manager desires. The "manager" has nothing to lose and everything to gain. If the fighter develops into a real drawing card the "manager" can hang onto him until his usefulness is over. If the fighter should prove to be a sliver the manager can cut loose.

One battler who recently cut loose from his "Manager" told us that in a little over one year he had earned $9000 in the ring, but that all he got out of it was $1000.

"I should have received nearly $7000," he said, "but my manager got the big bulk of the money. He was to get 25 per cent of my income for managing me. Well he got nearly 50 per cent. And what happened to me is happening to other fighters right along. They are being trimmed by their managers. A fighter doesn't know much about the fighting game. He leaves that up to his manager. If the manager is a square one the fighter gets a square deal. But if he isn't, the fighter is trimmed.

Earns $1200, Gets $50.00.
"I once fought for a $1200 guarantee. That amount of money was turned over to my manager by the promoter. Out of that I should have received $900.00 but when it came to settling up my manager gave me $55. He said that was all that was left. I made a howl but he explained that he had to pay out $100 for press agenting me, $50 for something else, another $75. here, and so on.

I investigated all those expenditures he said he had made and I found that he actually paid out only about $35.00. He gave me $55 and he pocketed $1100. That was the way with most of my fights."

That case is only one of many. One fighter who earned over $100,000 in five years is said to have received only about $30,000. His manager got the bulk of the balance.

One of the most prominent heavyweights in the country today said he earned over $14,000 for three fights—and he never got a dollar. It went to the manager. A featherweight was guaranteed $500. for a fight. That sum was paid over by the promoter, to the manager, but the battler—the man who worked and suffered—got $10. A once-time champion told us recently that various managers have drained him for over $30,000 before he decided he'd do his own managing.

It's a great little get-rich-quick-with-out-unnecessary-exertion game isn't it?

A squint down the long winding lane of pugilism convinces one that after all there may be a lot of justification for the wall that Billy Gibson let forth when his protegee, Jim Coffey, was declared out still on his feet in the third round of that recent bout with Frank Moran, the red-headed heavyweight.

"When Referee Brown stopped that fight, I'll admit that Coffey was groggy," said Gibson, "but the grogginess was temporary only. In another minute or two his brain would have been cleared and he surely would have recuperated, and won out in the end.

"I think Brown's ruling was a hasty one and I'll always think that way. His ruling puts a black mark on the record of Coffey and for the time being has killed Coffey's chances of meeting Willard.

"Those who have followed the ring game for many years know that there are hundreds of incidents where a fighter groggy and seemingly on the point of dropping to the mat has recuperated and won out."

Gibson pointed to the Tommy Ryan, Mysterious Billy Smith bout, staged at Coney Island some few years ago, as one instance to support his claim that a groggy, almost helpless fighter can come back and win.

"Ryan was hanging on to the ropes, a pitiful looking sight," said Gibson. "Smith rushed in and shot a blow to Ryan's head. He intended it to be a finisher, but instead that blow cleared Ryan's brain and he came around instantly, fought like a wild man and won.

The Bamberger Wells-Al Palzer fight which was fought in New York a few years ago, is a more recent instance, continued Gibson. Wells gave Palzer a terrific beating in the first round and in the second Palzer was in such shape that the crowd begged the referee to stop the bout and prevent a murder. In the third, well in that third round Palzer came out of his daze, shot a terrific wallop to Wells' stomach—and Mr. Wells went down for the complete count.

Years ago Kid McCoy and Tom Sharkey met. The Kid started off by landing a punch on Sharkey that was so terrific that the big Irishman went down like an ox. Sharkey couldn't get up but the bell at the end of the round saved him. Throughout the early part of the fight McCoy cut Sharkey to ribbons, but Sharkey recuperated and won.

Joe Walcott made a chopping block out of Kid Lavigne in the early rounds of their wonderful fight. The crowd insistently pleaded with the referee to stop the slaughter of the white man. But he didn't and the Kid came back and won.

"Peter Maher knocked Bob Fitzsimmons flat, but Bob won out in the end. Maher won from Chapski after the wonderful Jew had made a punching bag out of him in the early fighting. Terry McGovern was in an almost helpless condition during one stage of his fight with Oscar Gardner—let Terry win the fight.

"When Coffey fought Al Itch he was groggy in the first round but he won by a knockout. Jim Flynn, Arthur Pelkey and Jack Twin Sullivan had Coffey dazed and seemingly helpless, but Coffey came back and beat each of them—and without a knockout punch.

"I know that Brown did what he thought was fair and honorable, but I always will feel that if the fight had continued Coffey's grogginess would have disappeared and that he would have beaten Moran decisively.

A VISIT TO THE GRAND FLEET

London, Nov. 13.—Since the day when the British naval frontier swung round from south to east to face a new menace of arrival navy, there has been development in many directions to meet the requirements of a changed situation. In times of peace a fleet needs harborage and suitable ports for refreshment and repair. How much more is it essential to make provision of this character when that machine is put to the strain and stress of war!

Marvelous indeed has been the progress made during the last few months in supplying what is needed in that direction. The naval authorities have been equal to the occasion and were permitted to describe all that was shown in the way of providing against any calls and emergencies nothing could afford a more eloquent example of the foremost skill and scientific adaptation of means to ends which has inspired the working of the British naval administration.

In one place especially what was in my own memory swamp and sea has now become a busy naval establishment, with docks and locks and basins, into which the longest and heaviest ships that float can enter.

Fortunately also the configuration of these islands had provided secured and sheltered anchorages, which if they had been made for the purpose, could not more completely satisfy the needs of a fleet for bases facing the point from which danger threatens. Here it was that I was granted the valuable and exceptional privilege of seeing for myself certain portions of the fleet which Sir John Jellicoe commands.

Since July 20, 1914, when the fleet vanished silently from the channel, until quite recently, it has been but seldom that the veil which then befell upon its movements has been partially drawn aside. Even today, owing to its never-ceasing activity and vigilance, the exact whereabouts of the fleet remain unknown.

The two things which struck me most vividly on seeing the grand fleet were its magnitude, and its mobility. A naval officer on board one of the ships said to me that there are in addition to the war fleet, between two and three thousand ships of the mercantile marine employed upon transport and supply duties and quite as many engaged in the work of the patrol—the over watchful scouts—or in following the efforts of the submarines of the enemy.

In those portions of the fleet which I visited, all these classes of ships were represented. Of course we saw the celebrated man-of-war, the battle ships, the places where German submarines have been captured, destroyed or believed to have been sunk. Various methods of meeting the menace of the submarine were explained to us and we actually saw vessels engaged in this business leaving port. Indeed it was necessary to go outside the harbor to understand, at least in part, how it is that the "blockade" has failed. Here at anchor alongside one another lay the hano and the antelope.

Naturally the expense of water required for the anchorage of so many vessels must be ample proportions, and whether long and narrow lined by the background of hills, or broad and spacious with a setting of wooded heights, the lines of anchored ships as straight as if they had been ruled, stretched away in either direction in succession.

Not less significant than the impression of unseen power stored up in these potent war machines of latent strength hidden beneath their unobtrusive masses, was the sense of instant readiness for anything indicated by the constant and continual movement which prevailed. Every now and again, a division, a squadron, a flotilla, or maybe a group of smaller vessels, would exhibit signs of activity, then quicken into movement and finally pass out of anchorage. What their errand, none could tell, but again, my informant assured me that no part of the North Sea had not been constantly swept by some section of the grand fleet; nor had a German vessel of any size or importance been seen outside their mine fields since January 24 when they paid so heavily for so doing.

The frequent movement of which these depatures and arrivals were so eloquent is explained by the fact that each ship, and indeed the whole fleet is self contained. With its attributes of independent mobility and communication it is in readiness for action anywhere, or for any swift and unexpected blow. It can be as easily moved to some distant part of the world as from one port to another.

No better example of this was given than when two of the ships I saw, the Invincible, Admiral Sturdee's flagship, and the Inflexible, her consort, were sent almost at 24 hours notice a distance of 7,000 miles to destroy the squadron of von Sproe off the Falkland Islands.

The Germans must be somewhat tired by this time of being told that the Lion and the Tiger are still above water, but I must add my testimony. I saw both vessels and was on board the Tiger as a guest of Captain Pelly. I talked with an officer who was in the control position at that occasion and had heard the whistle of the German shells, and with blue-jackets who worked the guns which did much marvelous execution at long range.

WELL KNOWN PORTSMOUTH GIRL MARRIED

Miss Mary F. Chase Becomes the Bride of Boatswain
James J. Joyce, U. S. N.

The Church of the Immaculate Conception was the scene of a brilliant wedding this Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock when Miss Mary Frances Chase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Joseph Chase of this city, became the bride of Boatswain James Joseph Joyce, U. S. N.

The impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. D. Alexander Sullivan, P. R., in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends that fully attested the popularity of the contracting parties.

The bride was attractively attired in a white satin dress, with train and veil. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaid was Miss Katherine M. Chase, sister of the bride, who was attired in a gown of light blue crepe meteor, black velvet picture hat and carried a bouquet of pink Killarney roses.

The best man was John A. Joyce of New York, brother of the groom.

Immediately after the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, No. 32 Partridge street where a wedding breakfast was served.

The menu consisted of grape fruit, chicken and lobster salads, rolls, ice cream, assorted cake, coffee.

The gift of the groom to the best man was a gold watch and the gift of the bride to her bridesmaid was a ring.

Boatswain and Mrs. Joyce left on the noon train on an extended wedding trip which will include the San Francisco and San Diego Expositions. A large party of friends were at the railroad station to witness their departure. The bride's going away dress was of midnight blue velvet with hat to match.

On their return they will reside at Annapolis, Md., where the groom is at present stationed.

The bride was for a number of years employed at Hasset's music store and enjoys an extensive acquaintance.

The newly married couple start life under the most favorable auspices and with the best wishes of their large circle of acquaintances.

PORTSMOUTH THEATRE

(MUSIC HALL)
F. W. HARTFORD, Manager.

For Wednesday

On account of these pictures filled by many who cannot attend on either Monday or Tuesday we have decided to hold over our feature films for Wednesday, which are "Frank Keenan" in the "Long Chance" and "Neal of the Navy." All our small subjects will be changed every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

"The Long Chance" with Frank Keenan is certainly a great film. It is complete in six parts. It is a western photoplay, not a blood and thunder picture but a picture with a good strong and interesting plot. The action starts the minute the first picture is thrown upon the screen. Frank Keenan takes the leading part as Harley, the gambler.

"Neal of the Navy." This is the 10th episode of fourteen chapters and this is the thrilling most of the way through. In this picture "The Brute" takes an important part. He saves Annette from injury. Why? Well, we'll see in the following chapters. See this show. Small subjects will be changed.

POULTRY, CAT AND PET SHOW

To Be Held in December and a Success Looked For.

The Portsmouth Poultry Association has arranged for the annual show which will be held at Freeman's Hall the second week in December. The Association has arranged so that it will be a poultry, cat and pet show, and this will greatly increase the interest. It was noticeable last year at the show that the few pets that were shown attracted a great amount of attention.

In this city there are some very fine cats and the lovers of pets are prepared to show that there is a fine collection of other animals. The poultry section will be especially fine.

Portsmouth Young Man Takes Dover Girl for Bride

Edward McCabe, a popular employee of the Morley Dutton Company of this city and Miss Beatrice P. McDonough, a much esteemed young lady of Dover were united in the holy bonds of wedlock at St. Mary's church in Dover on Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father John J. Bradley in the presence of many friends, among whom were guests from Portsmouth, Ogunquit, Me., Somersworth and Lawrence, Mass.

The best man was Thomas P. McDonough, brother of the bride, and the maid of honor was Miss Mary Devine.

Following the wedding ceremony the wedding party went to the home of the bride 31 St. Thomas street where they received the congratulations of their friends and then enjoyed a fine wedding breakfast.

The happy couple were well remembered with costly and useful presents, choice reminders of the high esteem in which they are held by their friends. The couple left Dover on the 1.40 train for a brief wedding tour and on their return will take up a residence in Portsmouth.

ARMY AND NAVY NIGHT AT THE COLONIAL THEATRE

BIG POSING ACT OF ESPECIAL INTEREST TO ALL MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN IN THIS CITY

This evening, the last of the three days' stay in this city of the great Havilock's beautiful act, will be shown as Army and Navy Night at the Colonial Theatre, where this wonderful offering is being presented. The act proved to be as big a success last evening as it did on Monday, its opening night here. It is unquestionably one of the finest amusement offerings ever brought into this city, not alone because of its novelty but also for its own merits and a quality act. The beautiful pictures presented by the three actors, backed by the great scenic and lighting effects, makes this act stand out unique in the history of vaudeville. It is a distinctly "different" sort of entertainment ever offered here. There is not a word spoken from its beginning to its end, and in order to be appreciated it must be seen. There is something of interest to every man, woman and child, no matter what the occupation of the patron may be.

Heim, Washburn and Geers again scored at last evening's performance. Their musical offering, a three man minstrel show is another novelty, and the singing of the three artists proved to be worth going miles to see, not for getting a lot of clean, brilliant comedy.

Dawson and Gillette in their comedy skit, "First Aid to the Gloomy" again delighted the big house with their songs and funny talk, making the third act of a particularly strong bill.

TEACHERS ENTERTAIN

Social Gathering at the High School Hall a Great Success.

The first social of the Teachers' Association was held in the Assembly hall at the High school on Tuesday evening and there were nearly a hundred present and it was a most enjoyable occasion.

The hall was prettily decorated with Jack-o'-lanterns and black cats.

An entertainment was given which included a solo by Mrs. Mary Priest, accompanied on the violin by Mr. George D. Whittier; a solo by Miss Hazel Shields; solo by Miss Wentworth, Dover; a ghost dance by the young ladies of the Junior class at the Farragut school, under the direction of Miss Kirk, who originated the dance. The dramatic ghosts, was another pleasing feature in charge of Miss Helen Loughton.

Miss Alice Milbrun gave an interesting illustrated lecture on the Yellowstone Park. Miss Jessie Woods gave an interesting account of a hold-up in the park.

Hallowe'en games were then enjoyed and refreshments were served.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend to our friends and neighbors our heartfelt thanks for their kindness and assistance during our mother's last sickness, also for the beautiful floral tributes.

210 SUITS

Thanksgiving is only a week away and as "preparedness" is now "the order of the day" it is time you looked over your wardrobe to see if you are prepared for the holiday in the way of a "dress up" suit. Our twenty-dollar suit line is a strong feature of our suit display. A Stein-Bloch or a Kuppenheimer made suit at this price is "the limit of fabric and style value." We sell both makes.
